GREEN TIP #145:

Pedal to the Petal

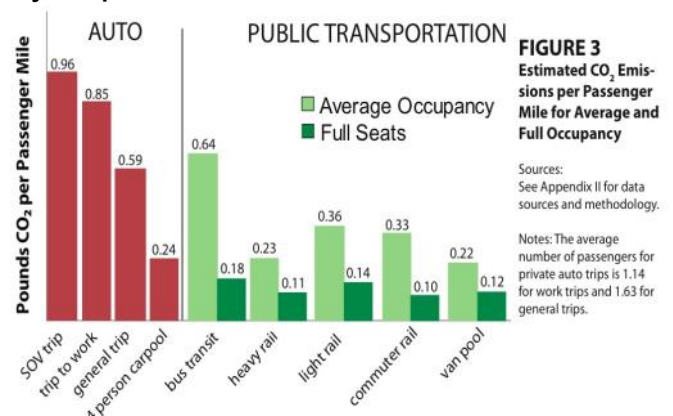

When it comes to getting to work there is much more eco friendly ways then driving alone.

Buses and Bikes, one holds up to 120 people max and the other doesn't even need gas, if you don't have either of these readily available there is a third option to carpool with a coworker or catch a ride from a friend that works nearby, all three of these options are not only viable but they reduce CO2 levels greatly and you could get some cardio in or socialize depending on what you pick.

Did you know: Cars take up a third in percentage of the Canadian air pollution and there's nearly one billion tons of CO2 each year.

Here's a little graph to give a better idea of vehicle CO2 emissions to help out a bit, drive safely and stay Eco friendly everyone.
