Sustainable Office Certification

The United Nations released 17 Sustainable development goals (SDG's) and 169 targets in 2015 focusing on the three pillars of sustainability: Environment and Climate Change, Society and Culture, and Governance and Economy. These goals were set to achieve peace, prosperity and environmental sustainability by 2030.

One of the many ways to show your businesses commitment to the United Nation's SDG's is through certification of your office.

Biosphere certification is an official certification that shows your company's commitment to the 17 SDG's and your alignment with sustainability.

Biosphere is an internationally recognized certification that improves reputation and builds consumer trust, provides a personalized sustainability plan, provides access to tools and training, and brings global visibility through Biosphere's Sustainable Platform.
